

RETROFESTIVAL

May 6-8

Four Performances: Thurs 7pm, Fri 7pm, Sat 2pm & 7pm

Huntington Beach Union High Schol District
Historic Auditorium and Bell Tower

The moment Bob Dylan "went electric" at The Newport Folk Festival in 1965, the music world would never be the same. Though booed by the folk crowd that day, his performance would inspire a series of outdoor rock music festivals in the late 1960s that would help spread and unite the counter-culture revolution sweeping across America. The sunset strip riots gave birth to The Monterey Pop Festival. The Beatles couldn't make it, but recommended a few new UK acts like The Who and the then unknown Jimi Hendrix (who literally ignited his career in front of the biggest teen audiences ever assembled). No longer a thing for nightclubs, rock music was now outdoors: blaring over open fields of communal young music fans in what would become the dawn of the modern concert industry.
